

IGHR

Institute of Genealogy and Historical Research

FRAZINE K. TAYLOR

AFRICAN AMERICAN RESEARCH IGHR SCHOLARSHIP

The Frazine K. Taylor African American Research Scholarship is open to professional librarians and archivists who help their patrons with African American research and to anyone committed to expanding their personal knowledge of African American genealogical research. The scholarship was established in 2018 by Deborah A. Abbott, PhD, in honor of Frazine K. Taylor upon her retirement as coordinator of the “Researching African American Ancestors” course IGHR. This scholarship for IGHR tuition is open to anyone interested in enrolling in the African American course at IGHR each year.

Learn more about Frazine K. Taylor and the scholarship online:

ighr.gagensociety.org/scholarships/frazine-k-taylor

Tax-deductible contributions to the Birdie Monk Holsclaw IGHR Scholarship fund may be sent to:
IGHR Scholarship Fund, c/o Georgia Genealogical Society, PO Box 550247, Atlanta, GA 30355-2747